

Essay and Art Competition--TWO $100 PRIZES AVAILABLE!

The Wendell Berry Honor House is holding an essay and art competition for this year's Recipes for Social Change Cookbook!

Wendell Berry, the namesake of our house, has written about the power of building strong communities through food. In honor of his ideas, we have decided to focus this year's cookbook on TRADITIONS.

If you love to write or want to submit any of your original literary pieces from previous classes, send them to martih@stolaf.edu by February 28th for a chance to win a $100 grand prize!

Topic ideas include food traditions and community, sustainable food systems, and social justice. Even if you don't win the grand prize, every writer we select will receive a free cookbook. In the past, we have featured short stories, poems, and reflections. Let your creativity flow!

If writing isn't your forte, you can still be involved, and you can still win money! We're also looking for original artwork to feature in our cookbook. Please send us your artwork embodying our message of food and community. Your art can be in any media, as long as we can scan it or photograph it to include in the cookbook. Submit your artwork to martih@stolaf.edu by February 28th for the chance to win a $100 grand prize! Again, every artist featured in the cookbook will receive a free copy.

Feel free to email martih@stolaf.edu with any questions. We look forward to receiving your writing and artwork submissions! You may submit as many entries as you please.
